QUOTE of the WEEK

"Opportunity is missed by most people because it is dressed in overalls and looks like work."

MARKET COMMENTARY

EASTER EXCEPTION!

As holidays descended across much of the sub-continent over the last week, activity and sales logically slowed as the recycling industry enjoyed a bit of a breather.

Certainly, the recently ebullient Bangladeshi market has fallen out of contention over this past month, as domestic sentiments and pricing endured a sustained dip, despite having led the industry for much of this year.

Instead, it is the rampant Pakistani and Indian markets that continue to lead the way and continue to pay the most impressive numbers close to (and even above) USD 700/LDT (in some cases).

Having missed out on much of the market tonnage to Bangladesh over the last few months, capacity at local yards remains healthy in both Alang and Gadani. As such, eager Recyclers are snapping up the paucity of available units at increasingly firm numbers.

Indeed, freight markets remain so impressively poised that a bit of a lull has descended over the industry of late (in terms of fresh market sales). Tanker rates across certain routes have also started to fly again and coupled with an admirably performing container and dry bulk sector, recycling markets are being deprived of most of the firm and workable age-appropriate tonnage.

Regrettably, on the 'right' of the globe, contradicting the aggression of the sub-continent markets, is Turkey that continues to struggle through a surprising week of declines, with steel plate prices and vessel offerings plummeting towards the low USD 400s/MT.

For week 16 of 2022, GMS demo rankings / pricing for the week are as below.

Demo Rank	Location	Sentiment	Dry Bulk USD / LDT	Tankers USD / LDT	Containers USD / LDT
1	India	Improving	670 / LDT	680 / LDT	690 / LDT
2	Pakistan	Improving	660 / LDT	670 / LDT	680 / LDT
3	Bangladesh	Weakening	650 / LDT	660 / LDT	670 / LDT
4	Turkey	Declining	410 / LDT	420 / LDT	430 / LDT

All at GMS would like to wish all our friends and readers an Eid Mubarak and a Happy Greek Easter!

BANGLADESH

DOWN AND DIRE!

Subdued.

It was another subdued week in a reluctant Bangladesh, with few firm offers or even enquiries (for tonnage) emanating from this market, where sky-high sentiments during the early part of Q1 2022 have ended up rapidly plummeting as the year progresses on.

Logically, the ongoing month of Ramadan has kept the focus of domestic Recyclers on religious celebrations, even though domestic steel plate prices remain volatile and have even declined by an additional USD 7/Ton this week, stranding Bangladesh as the lowest placed of all sub-continent markets.

Diverted.

As a result, it was hardly a surprise to see no market fixtures into Bangladesh for another week, with most of the available tonnage being diverted to the better placed Pakistani / Indian markets.

INDIA

TOP GEAR!

As the top paying market of the moment, Alang buyers are seeing much of the tonnage that was previously destined for competing sub-continent destinations, finally being diverted towards Indian shores.

Volume players.

It has certainly been some time since Alang sat atop the market rankings and this recent resurgence seems well deserved, given the (stunning) surge in domestic steel plate price over the last few weeks.

Surprisingly though, some worrying currency deprecations (have left the Indian Rupee straggling in the mid Rs. 76s against the U.S. Dollar) and alarming steel falls during early Q1 had put the Indian market well out of the competitive space.

Working units.

Notwithstanding, there remain a number of vessels of all types and sizes from existing Cash Buyer inventories that were working firm into India (even previously unfavoured higher LDT market units), as activity ramps into top gear in this market.

PAKISTAN

HOT ON THE HEELS!

Impressive feat.

Following hot on the heels of India, is the similarly firm Pakistani market that has been on fire of late – an impressive feat given the recent political turmoil & ousting of Prime Minister Imran Khan, in addition to the succumbing of the Pakistani Rupee against the U.S. Dollar – hitting an 18 year-low of PKR 187.50 against the U.S. Dollar as the week ended.

Despite these troubling declines in the Pakistani Rupee, there is the feeling locally that the Gadani market may push on further after Ramadan / Eid holidays, and once the new PM / cabinet has settled in, we hope this market continues to perform admirably.

Price push.

Especially since local steel plate prices have been performing admirably of late and even registered a firming of nearly USD 46/Ton this week alone – resulting in demand and local sentiments remaining firmly poised.

As it stands, even well positioned vessels for Gadani are being diverted to the slightly better paying India (in some cases), and it may take a greater push on levels in order for Pakistani Recyclers to continue to get their fair share of tonnage moving forward.

TURKEY

WIGGLING OUT?

The Turkish market seems to have gone through a bit of a noteworthy dither this week with import steel declining by about USD 30/Ton and prices on units declining about USD 50/MT over the span of a little over a week.

USD 50/MT drop.

The declining levels almost immediately brought about a sense of instant reservation amongst the Turkish recycling community, given that the this market is witnessing record prices amidst record (Turkish) delcines.

As a result, the Turkish market went nearly silent this week, other than accounting for a couple of high-priced deliveries that seem to have reportedly made their way to Aliaga anchorage this week.

High-priced deals.
