MARKET SUMMARY

INDIA

- The Indian market remains very weak, with prices declining daily and no signs of recovery. Overall demand in local markets has dropped sharply, partly due to the government's continued restriction on reusing ship-recycled scrap for cold rolling.

- Even with the onset of winter, recyclers see no relief, indicating ongoing market pressure.

- The Indian ship recycling industry welcomed a recent ruling by the Customs, Excise and Service Tax Appellate Tribunal, classifying used lead-acid batteries from ship recycling as goods rather than waste or scrap, removing excise duty and enhancing cost efficiency, regulatory clarity, and sustainability.

BANGLADESH

- Buyers remain active, focusing mainly on tankers and bulkers in the 7,000–10,000 LDT range.

- Local market sentiment continues to soften due to limited tonnage availability, though prices remain relatively firm compared to India and Pakistan.

- This situation is expected to stabilize once the yards secure sufficient vessels, bringing prices more in line with regional markets.

PAKISTAN

- The market remains relatively better than India, but uncertainty over the pending IMF tranche has led sellers to adopt a wait-and-see approach as meetings continue.

- No new vessel deliveries have been reported since the IMF tension emerged, reflecting cautious sentiment and concerns over USD availability.

- Until there is clarity on the IMF outcome, sellers may consider diverting to Bangladesh or India, with India offering comparatively greater stability.

TURKIYE

- Import prices have improved by around USD 5 this week, while local prices remain unchanged.

- The market continues to follow its usual pattern, showing no notable changes. As is typically the case, activity and sentiment remain exactly the same as in previous weeks.

Recent data shows that around 30 percent of the global container fleet, measured by capacity, is on order and scheduled for delivery over the next few years. This wave of newbuilds could offer a glimmer of hope for recyclers as newer vessels gradually replace older ones.
