MARKET SUMMARY

INDIA

- The Indian market has finally shown a very slight sign of hope, indicating a possible improvement after a prolonged quiet period.
- However, the U.S. dollar has strengthened considerably, limiting any positive impact this minor shift could have brought.
- Overall, the market remains flat, with sentiment still cautious and activity levels subdued despite this faint hint of optimism.

BANGLADESH

- The market remains largely subtle, with limited movement observed over the week. Overall activity levels remain moderate.
- Apart from an isolated transaction involving the sale of a large-sized tanker at unusually high levels, considered unsustainable under current conditions, sentiment remains steady without major change in pricing or buyer interest.
- Yards in Bangladesh have started receiving DASR certification, with more expected to follow in the coming period.

PAKISTAN

- The Pakistani market continues to struggle amid very weak demand and declining activity levels.
- Prices for shredded steel have fallen further, adding to the overall market pressure.
- In addition, illegal imports from Iran are disrupting local market dynamics, further weakening sentiment and limiting any prospects of short-term recovery.

TURKIYE

- The market remains stable, with no notable changes observed compared to the previous week.
- Overall conditions are steady, reflecting the typical pattern of how this market tends to respond and move.
- Sentiment remains neutral, with both buyers and sellers maintaining a wait-and-watch approach in line with past behavior.
