MARKET SUMMARY

INDIA

- The market witnessed a slight pickup at the very end of the week, but overall conditions remain largely unchanged due to the strengthened U.S. dollar, which continues to limit market movement.
- Buying interest exists but remains restricted because of the ongoing shortage of tonnage. Whatever interest does emerge is mostly at lower levels.
- The continued inflow of dark-fleet/shadow-fleet units at significantly cheaper prices is putting additional pressure on local markets, as these vessels are being turned around quickly and pulling overall sentiment down.
- The DASR is still pending, and recyclers, as well as other market participants—continue to press the authorities for its release.

BANGLADESH

- Market activity remains quiet with no meaningful change in sentiment. Conditions are largely the same as in previous weeks.
- Buyers remain interested in 8,000–10,000 LDT units, but availability is extremely limited. Larger vessels are attracting less attention mainly because only one or two buyers currently have the LC capability to pursue them.
- Ongoing LC constraints remain the main hurdle for the market, restricting the ability of most buyers to commit to new tonnage.

PAKISTAN

- The Pakistani market shows no change and continues to lean on the weaker side. Sentiment remains flat with no signs of improvement.
- Buying activity is minimal, and no significant movement in pricing or demand has been observed.

TURKIYE

- Conditions in Türkiye remain unchanged from the previous week. The market continues to follow its usual pattern, showing very little movement week-to-week.
- Sentiment and activity remain the same as before, with no notable developments or shifts observed during the week.
