MARKET SUMMARY

INDIA

- Market sentiment softened further through the week, with local ship recycling prices continuing to trend downward amid persistent weakness in buying interest.
- Discussions remain ongoing between Indian recycling yards and the European Union regarding the inclusion of three Indian yards on the EU-approved recycling list, with one of our yards among the applicants.
- A noticeable influx of vessels from the dark fleet continues to arrive at Indian recycling destinations, contributing to market attention despite otherwise subdued trading conditions.
- Overall, the market closed the week on a softer note, with limited fresh developments outside the ongoing regulatory discussions.

BANGLADESH

- The local market remained weak overall, with a brief improvement during the week proving unsustainable as prices softened again toward the close.
- Despite the broader market weakness, buyers have shown exceptionally strong interest in small- and mid-sized tankers, with few transactions concluded at notably aggressive price levels.
- Demand continues to be concentrated on these smaller tanker units, while buying appetite for other vessel types remains limited.
- Overall market sentiment remains cautious, with recyclers closely monitoring price direction before expanding their purchasing activity.

PAKISTAN

- Market sentiment remained stable during the week, with vessel prices largely unchanged from the previous week.
- A few vessels arrived during the week, providing some activity in an otherwise steady market.
- Recyclers remain keen to acquire fresh tonnage and continue to show interest in available recycling candidates.
- Overall, the market remains balanced, supported by stable pricing and continued buying interest.

TURKIYE

- The Aliaga market has steadied following the recent correction in prices, though overall activity remains limited.
- Most yards continue to operate with healthy inventories, reducing their appetite for fresh tonnage, especially larger and higher-grade units.
- The wide price gap with the Indian subcontinent continues to restrict Türkiye's competitiveness for standard recycling candidates.
- As a result, demand remains largely driven by regulatory considerations, with EU-flagged and EU-compliant vessels still favoring Türkiye despite lower recycling returns.
