WEEK 42 – 16 OCTOBER 2026

Quote of the week:

"Discretion is the better part of valor."

William Shakespeare, from the history play "Henry IV".

MARKET COMMENTARY

Bulkers: The charter market experienced a significant downturn this week as the Baltic Dry Index (BDI) declined for 4th consecutive week closing today at 2,511 points, reflecting a slump of almost 14 % compared to last Friday's closing value of 2,917 points:

Baltic Dry Index	2511 -34
Baltic Capesize Index	3249 -73
Baltic Panamax Index	2314 -42
Baltic Supramax Index	1865 +9
Baltic Handysize Index	1011 +4

Although charter rates hit an over-one-month low, the bulker S+P market is particularly active with a total of 16 transactions recorded, comprising 2 panamax, 4 ultramaxes, 3 supramaxes, 1 handymax and 6 handysize bulk carriers.

For a detailed review and additional information regarding these week's transactions, kindly refer to our "representative sales" section.

Demolition: The Subcontinent markets remain stable this week, with minimal availability of new tonnage. Despite a decline in local steel prices, demo rates are largely unchanged. Indian market sentiment is positive, with a notable demand for specialized vessels, including stainless steel tankers and RoPax vessels. Cash buyers are willing to offer a significant premium for these types of ships. For an overview of demolition market rates, please check our comprehensive demometer below:
