MARKET SUMMARY

INDIA

- The Indian market strengthened during the week due to the limited availability of steel plates, as slow cutting activity and several vessels remaining away from shore restricted supply.
- This improvement is expected to be temporary, with conditions likely to change over the coming weeks. Demand for steel remains very weak at the end-product level.
- Buyers remain keen to acquire vessels but continue to face difficulty competing with offers from other recycling destinations.
- Dark-fleet vessels continue to be recycled at Indian shores. As India remains the only destination accepting such vessels, it holds a significant advantage over competing markets.

BANGLADESH

- Local market conditions weakened over the week, although healthy inquiry for recycling candidates remains.
- Buyers are showing greater interest in bulkers and other vessels without compliance-related concerns.
- Compliance risks remain a major challenge after a tanker was sanctioned following its arrival and completion of clearances, just before beaching. Such developments place significant pressure on both ship recyclers and cash buyers.

PAKISTAN

- Market conditions remained largely unchanged, with recyclers actively seeking vessels but very few candidates being offered.
- Local markets remain short of scrap, supporting healthy conditions and good demand from buyers.
- Pakistani buyers remain unable to compete with Bangladesh but are currently in a position to compete with India.

TURKIYE

- Aliaga's ship recycling market remained largely unchanged over the past week, with sentiment continuing to be affected by the weak Turkish lira and the limited availability of attractive recycling candidates.
- There has been little indication of any meaningful recovery, and the market continues to lag behind the Indian subcontinent in terms of competitiveness.
- Most conventional recycling candidates are expected to favour South Asian destinations. However, Aliaga continues to maintain its established role as a specialised market for vessels requiring EU-approved recycling facilities and Basel Convention compliance.
